It is safe to say that practically every English-speaking theatregoer over the age of sixteen has seen the famous old play, "East Lynne," at least once; it is also quite safe to say that none has seen such a performance of it as that now being shown in moving picture form at the Bijou.

ably occupy several days.

In addition, a large cast of thoroughly competent actors presents the play in a manner never seen in this day, when the piece is used only by stock companies and fly-by-nights.

San Francisco, Cal. August 25.—The people of San Francisco to-day voted overwhelmingly to build and operate a series of street railway lines, intended to help furnish transportation to the Pahama Canal Exposition grounds and also to furnish a nucleus to a permanent municipal street railway system.

With a two-thirds vote necessary to carry the bonds, incomplete returns from different parts of the city indicate that the victory was won-by a three to one figure. The women took a lively interest in the election and registered a heavy vote.

When the new lines have been completed the city will be a formidable competitor of the United Railways, which at present practically controls street railway traffic in the city.

Since the Mayor and supervisors decided last April to put the proposal before the people for a $3,500,000 bond issue for this purpose, an energetic campaign both in support and in opposition to the bonds has been carried on.

ALL AMENDMENTS

Changes in Administration Currency Bill.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Washington, August 26.-Bitter criticism of the so-called "asset currency" provided by the Glass-Owen bill through the plan of discount and rediscount of commercial paper and an attempt to have such currency specified and made ineligible for payment of public debts, prevented ratification of the currency bill to-night at the House Democratic caucus. Floyd, of Arkansas, started the Democratic row after Leader Underwood had brought about a night session in the hope of ending the currency caucus and in bringing about Democratic harmony on the Glass-Owen bill as approved by President Wilson.

ing about Democratic harmony on the Glass-Owen bill as approved by President Wilson.

Opposed to the bill because it did not carry more drastic provisions for an agricultural currency. Floyd reopened the old score of antagonism to asset eurrency, and sought by an amendment to the bill to force a complete gold basis for all currency, even that issued in times of emergency.

Under the storm of 'Noes' that followed his motion to have adopted his amendment. Floyd tried to break the caucus with a demand for a quorum of Democratic members. There was no quorum present, and none was possible to-night.

Speaker Clark, analous to facilitate action on the bill, saved the day by pleading for time to give his views. He defended provisions of the bill and opposed spectal currency issues. The Floyd amendment will be defeated.

Early in the day the House Banking and Currency Committee was called and submitted amendments to the provision relating to the use and control of government reserves. It was contended by members that the government, after creating the reserves, should leave to the bankers handling them discretion and time allowance as to recall. Defending the bill, the committee refused to make any changes claiming that the government must retain control of these funds to secure stability of circulation, which is one of the main purposes of the currency reform promised.

Many amendments affecting the language of the bill were proposed in the caucus, but all were defeated by the majority of two to one.

Amendments to the currency bill suggestived by the bankers at their Chivage.

all were deteated by the hard stages of the one.

Amendments to the currency bill suggested by the bankers at their Chicago meeting are doomed to rejection by the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency, according to statements made to-day by Chairman Owen of that committee.

Mr. Business Man

If you can create a public interest in your advertising, you have secured the best line of advertising possible.

What method of advertising creates more public interest than the electric sign?

> The merchant that puts out an electric sign attracts the public to his place of business. He advertises and boosts his city, and by boosting his city he helps himself and the entire community.

> The electric sign creates comment and talk among the travelers and the shoppers from the distant points, and when some of the "home folks" receive visitors and relatives from elsewhere, the first thing that is shown the visitors are the many beautiful flashing electric signs of Richmond.

The man that has his electric sign out working for him at night is going to secure the greatest results.
